Projects & academic highlights

- To evaluate the antioxidant activity of the ethyl acetate extract of Azadirachta indica (Neem) using the ABTS radical scavenging assay, with a focus on its phenolic compound content.
- The ethyl acetate extract of neem leaves is selected because it is known to concentrate phenolic compounds, which are major contributors to antioxidant activity. By using the ABTS assay, the study aims to quantitatively assess the antioxidant efficiency of the extract and potentially correlate it with its phenolic content.
